

ALEXIA BRINSLEY

Alexia is a professional actress and improviser working extensively in the Australian and New Zealand performing arts industry.

She landed her first role as a presenter on TVNZ's "What Now" popular kids TV show.

Now based in Melbourne She is apart of the improvisation troop "Impromptunes" and has hosted multiple improvised shows in the Melbourne international comedy festival and Sydney's Bondi feast.

Alexia has presented fitness segments appearing on "A Current Affair" and Chanel Nine news for both KKORE lagree fitness and Bohdi and ride.

Alexia has a confident, articulate and energetic presenting style with a particular flare for comedy and improvisation, most recently landing the lead role hosting Channing Tatum's "Magic Mike Live" on the Australian tour which kicked off at the end of 2020 where she was extremely well received as noted by the reviews.

"Shoutout to the evenings fabulous MC Alexia Brinsley. She was bold, hilarious, sassy and will have you feeling at home in no time!"

- Ticketmaster Australia

"We loved our hostess with the mostess', the gorgeous, fun and perfectly cast Alexia Brinsley absolutely took over, steering the show the right direction!"

- Scenstr, Alicia Norton

"I felt very lucky to see Alexia Brinsley in action as the MC. I was so comfortable listening to her throughout the night while she commanded the show, to the point where I felt like I was listening to an old friend shamelessly unload their deepest darkest secrets accompanied with plenty of buzz and sass. She is fierce, empowering, and wildly talented."

- Lilithia reviews