

MEREONI VUKI

Mereoni Vuki is an international presenter and performance coach.

While working professionally as an actor, she studied performance under both classical and contemporary acting teachers from the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art (London) and Practical Aesthetics Techniques from The Atlantic Theater Company. She then completed academic studies in business, when the two collided.

Over many years of study and experience, she drew on the parallels between performance as an art form and performance in business. Using her deep understanding of and passion for story telling, she gradually moved towards presenting.

She has worked on radio in Sydney hosting an evening drive program and has interviewed on TV programs including Good morning Australia and Cheese TV. She has also performed professionally as a singer/guitarist both in Australia and abroad.

She has worked as an MC at corporate events and a keynote speaker for international leadership summits and at business forums including leading a forum on the future of learning in the digital age in Bangkok along with other similar forums across the Asia Pacific.

She works with a variety of organisations to design and develop corporate messages in the form of online videos and conference presentations. However, she most enjoys delivering light-hearted content in the entertainment space.

She has trained with Tamara Oudyn and has extensive experience scripting content and working with autocue.
